

The yearning for continual spiritual growth is my constant obsession. My quest in life is to learn as much as possible about the Light of Holy Spirit. There is nothing else that matters more to myself. Now that I have begun to learn what it feels like to have Holy Spirit dwelling within my heart, within my spirit and within my soul; there isn't any other power that can compare to the bliss the presence of Holy Spirit gives. Holy Spirit is the Spirit of God which is given to all from Jesus Christ to learn about the mysteries of life. The more one learns; the more that is revealed and the closer one gets to God. This automatically happens through the mystery of faith. This is only one of the many ways spiritual awakenings occur. Anyone can receive Holy Spirit, by earnestly asking for its love to come inside their souls. Once one begins to learn how to communicate with Holy Spirit, is when learning how to perceive the spirit of self occurs. I have come to the conclusion that the definitions of faith, spirit and love are three of the most important powers to learn about. Those powers teach us the reasons for life and about where we are destined to go when we leave this world. We are spirit, and we are soul before anything else.

Spiritual awakenings can come at any time in life. They are easy to receive when sought after. And sometimes they can happen when one least expects. A spiritual awakening is when Holy Spirit comes into conscious, spirit and soul and changes one's entire outlook on life. When I received my first awakening, I became overwhelmingly filled with the presence of Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit is a Power that is so intense; that when felt, one becomes undoubtedly aware that God is the greatest reality of all that exists. Awakenings open natural senses to the supernatural divine. Anyone can have an awakening, and continual awakenings throughout life; all one has to do is ask Holy Spirit to come into their life, and he will. With awakenings comes revelations and reevaluations concerning one's entire spiritual life.

Remaining close to Holy Spirit allows me to continually achieve gradual spiritual growth; which in turn fuels my fascination for more. My faith in Holy Spirit is the life force that feeds my soul. And I will never give up on yearning to get closer to the Light of Holy Spirit's all. It's all about gradual spiritual growth; from one level of faith to the next. Every day is new day to get closer by learning from the day before. I have learned not to repeat my mistakes. This is a must; to advance spiritually. I am consumed with constant communion and communication with our Comforters companionship. And now, I truly know it doesn't matter if he is a trillion galaxies, or realms, or dimensions away; because through the mystery of faith, his presence is always within myself. He is in me; just as I am in him. There is nothing that separates us. And I am getting closer day by day; by being consumed by his love. I am learning to become the one that he intends me to be. I stand before him, with open arms asking for this intense yearning that dwells within, to continually be transformed. And I know that my pleas are being answered, because with spiritual growth comes overwhelming awareness of his abundant and endless love; which waits patiently, yearning to be found by all.

I know I am having another spiritual awakening; more intense than the last one before, because all of my senses are completely overcome with the closeness of his presence. His is the only fact of life that makes any sense anymore; nothing else matters after learning of his truths. By faith, I have crossed that line to see beyond the veil, and I long for all that dwells over there. Through him and for him, my strengths continue to grow; which he promises to all who vow to follow the road that leads to his home.

Spiritual awakenings happen when union with the celestial occurs; with the overwhelming sensation of energy and excitement ever felt of before. It's a life-changing experience that alters one's reality to higher supernatural extremes. Self-begins to desire continuous understanding with an irresistible renewal of commitment; confidently determined to learn as much as possible of the divine. One quickly learns that faith is the lifeline to the heavens; and as faith grows, so does the strength of the bond. And as awareness grows the light of self-shares of its realities, because it rejoices becoming one with its higher truth; knowing it belongs to his love that is from above.

There is a time during spiritual growth in faith when one is destined to cross a spiritual line and enter into the other side where all living eternal truths originate. Where enhancing is blessed with the fire of the Holy Spirit, and convictions are put through the fire to get refined. Both situations happen with the crossing to prepare for all that lies ahead. Your future is depending on your strength to prevail. There are many spiritual lessons to learn to be able to stand strong. Each is taught different truths to continue along their own destiny.

Through spiritual growth comes spiritual awakenings, and through spiritual awakenings comes spiritual growth. They both work together to elevate faith. And with determination; the more frequently. There are many blessings to be given to each one. Holy Comforter knows everyone's weaknesses and strengths; this is how what determines the next lesson in each one's life to learn from. One could think about spiritual growth as sequential lessons, or levels of awareness where one advances to the next only after the last one that was revealed is understood and applied. The Comforter is here now to prepare everyone for a successful and fulfilling spiritual life that leads to a blessed future. Learn to glorify Holy Spirit with all of your heart, soul and might for best results to continually occur.

Once I became aware of Holy Spirit inside my heart and soul; I knew my life was meant to be for him alone. I will do whatever he wants me to do; let his will be done in my life. No matter what I have to learn; I will learn all that it takes to please our Lord. And the desire to get as close as possible to him is my mission; yearning and striving with all of my strength and will. This is my purpose in life. And knowing that my salvation is secure, and that someday I will be there with him; is his promise that he gives to all.

Keep it all simple; do not trouble one's self-contemplating the mysteries concerning spiritual presence's that cannot be explained. For such is in the very definition of faith; to believe without proof. We cannot even begin to fathom the divine powers that Father God, Christ Jesus, and the Holy Spirit possess. Let alone, even dare to question them. Our human minds are not capable of grasping the supreme majesty of Holy Trinity's omnipotence; Gods ability to do whatever he wills. Omnipresence; Gods virtue of which he fills the universe in all its parts and is present everywhere at once. And omniscience; Gods attribute by which he perfectly and eternally knows all things which can be known about the past, present and future.

Yes, there are millions of answers to millions of questions to be curious about, though wanting answers is not total submission that Holy Spirit wants us to have. When we submit is when the answers began to be made known. Holy Spirit desires total faith for total transformation into his Holy Light to occur. I have learned to keep focused on my spiritual future alone. Know that God created each one's living soul for their own eternal purposes, and we each will be taught all that we each will need to know to have a successful spiritual journey during our time in this world and into the heavenly where we are destined to go.

A spirit that is so full of innocence, how could it ever be tossed against the winds? For this must happen at any given time in one's life to learn between right and wrong concerning spiritual light, and spiritual darkness. Something that is so pure and true that is about self-spirit is destined to learn many truths to succeed. Do not worry, this happens to everyone who learns that spirituality is alive, eternal and true. How could a spirit that was once so full of innocence ever find its way back to where it once was again? I found the way to salvation through Christ Jesus, and that is why he came here for every other one else; to receive the same.

These words are full of encouragement for those who can read between the lines. My entire life, I've been trying to get to the core of these truths that dwell deep within my heart. Throughout my life, I have gotten sidetracked from these truths over and over again. So much time being lost, but never really wasted, because I was given glimpses of the other sides where my spirit didn't belong. This taught me well, to not judge, and to keep my spirit under control, and to not ever fight unless to defend. I have learned how to forgive and to forget. And I will always be learning how to love and be loved. Learning spiritual truths is a process that never ends; and one reason for eternal life.
